Harlem Community Garden Bike Tour

This historic Harlem bike tour explores the neighborhood's rich community garden legacy. Along the ride, participants will see diverse food production practices honoring Black southern roots, horticultural beacons, and outdoor educational spaces that are woven into fabric of Central Harlem.

Community gardens are volunteer-run green spaces where people can come together around growing food and community. Gardens across the city are seeking new members to plant produce and flowers, host events, maintain community spaces, and contribute extra hands for garden projects! Beginners and experienced gardeners are welcome!

NYC Parks GreenThumb supports over 550 community gardens and 20,000 gardeners by providing gardening space, materials, and supplies, and technical assistance at no cost. GreenThumb hosts innovative gardening workshops, trainings and conferences. Learn more at greenthumb.nycgovparks.org.
